Givaudan announces long-term collaboration with Amyris in active cosmetic ingredients

28 Jun 2016

Givaudan today announced a newly expanded collaboration with the industrial bioscience company Amyris, Inc. in the research, development and production of active cosmetic ingredients. The companies anticipate that the launch of target products in the coming years will demonstrate significant performance, cost and sustainability advantages over existing ingredients.

Givaudan has been engaged in the research and development of proprietary fragrance ingredients with Amyris for several years. The expansion of the partnership leverages the diversity and value of Amyris' R&D platform and manufacturing capabilities for designing high-performance, cultured ingredients. During the multi-year collaboration, Amyris will use its strain engineering platform to design cosmetic active targets, and scale them up at its manufacturing facility in Brotas, Brazil for exclusive commercialisation by Givaudan.

“We are very pleased to expand our ongoing partnership with Amyris. As Givaudan continues to look for innovative and sustainable solutions, we are expanding the relationship to apply Amyris’ technology to the new field of active cosmetic ingredients,” said Maurizio Volpi, President of Givaudan’s Fragrance Division. “This partnership demonstrates three concrete steps fully in line with our 2020 strategy: First, Open Innovation, by leveraging external partnerships; second, Sustainability, by looking at different ways to source raw materials; and third, Active Beauty, a growing area of investment for Givaudan.”

“We are excited to be working with Givaudan to provide innovative, sustainable and cost-effective solutions for active cosmetic ingredients. We are very pleased with Givaudan’s commitment to innovation and its leadership in delivering breakthrough in active cosmetics,” said John Melo, Amyris President and Chief Executive Officer. “The collaboration validates, once again, our belief that Amyris offers its customers the fastest time to market from target identification to production of multiple tonnes of high quality ingredients via its disruptive approach towards meeting partners’ requirements. We are making our planet better, delivering consumers cultured ingredients that are better for them while improving our partners’ business performance.”
